One of the most eagerly anticipated exercises in Canadian civics research has been released. Entitled The Accidental Citizen, it's a report on a series of exit interviews with former MPs, and was conducted by Michael MacMillan and Alison Loat at Samara. Alison was on The Current this morning, you can stream or podcast it from the CBC site if you missed it.

You can download the report or join the debate on the Samara site. Here's the link.
